

Buckinghamshire in World War Two

This teaching resource has been developed by the Centre for Buckinghamshire Studies using original records from the county's archives.

It is intended for the items provided here to be a starting point – this is not all that is held by the Centre and more information can be found. Teachers are welcome to visit the archives and local studies areas of the Centre, and we can organise school visits although we do not have the space to accommodate large numbers of pupils. Should you require more information about resources held at the Centre or advice about how to use this pack, please contact the archives on 01296 382587 or email archives@buckscc.gov.uk.

A database of the Buckinghamshire Emergency Planning Files which record where bombs fell and non-enemy incidents in World War 2 can be found on the Centre for Buckinghamshire's website at www.buckscc.gov.uk/archives.
